MEMORANDUM FOR: Chief, Administrative Staff, O/DBI

SUBJECT: Nomination for the Stanford Executive Program, Stanford University

1. [] has been selected as the NPIC nominee for the Stanford Executive Program to be conducted at the Stanford University beginning 21 June 1970 and continuing until 14 August 1970. We welcome the opportunity to make this nomination; not only because of the excellence of [] qualifications, but because his selection and subsequent training would be of great benefit to the Center. As one of the largest offices within the Directorate for Intelligence, NPIC regularly encounters problems of increasing complexity which demand the attention of competent and highly trained individuals. In addition, the scope of our frequent daily contact with representatives of private industry serves to underline our need for the kind of employee who has been able to broaden his understanding and ability through the type of training offered by the Stanford Program.

2. Attached are six (6) copies of [] updated biographic profile, two most recent fitness reports, a nominating statement, and the official personnel folder.

Executive Director, NPIC

NOMINATION OF [REDACTED]
FOR THE STANFORD EXECUTIVE PROGRAM
21 JUNE TO 14 AUGUST 1970

25X1

[REDACTED] has been selected as a nominee for the Stanford Executive Program to be conducted 21 June to 14 August 1970.

[REDACTED] has had extensive management experience with the Central Intelligence Agency and 21 years of prior military service. He continuously displays high potential for very senior managerial positions. He is also an articulate briefer who possesses a wide range of knowledge of intelligence collection systems.

[REDACTED] and the CIA will benefit from his participation in the Stanford Executive Program. It will increase his awareness of recent managerial developments in private industry particularly as they pertain to new theories of management and new problem solving techniques. As a division chief within one of the largest and most complex components of the CIA he must utilize highly innovative management approaches in a technical environment subject to constant change.

The Stanford Program places heavy emphasis on judgement, qualitative management control, organizational behavior and leadership. It should be especially helpful in [REDACTED] daily decision-making process.

[REDACTED] has had formal training in economics and marketing management. His participating in the CIA's Midcareer Executive Development Program and other organizationally-sponsored training indicates that he would make a major contribution to this course. [REDACTED] can be expected to ably represent the CIA in the Stanford Executive Program while gaining considerable knowledge on subjects directly applicable to his present position and future assignments.
